A Guide for Changing Workplaces

Over recent months, Covid-19 has changed working and learning environments. As people return to their office, school, college or university, buildings will have to be transformed to ensure social distancing guidelines are met and maintained in order to protect health and wellbeing.

One way in which companies can remodel spaces while maintaining an element of the design is through the use of carpet tiles.

Guide, Paragon Carpet Tiles' range to support effective social distancing offers reminders to employees and visitors to keep a distance from one another, alongside displaying wayfinding systems.
